Welcome to the Cedrus Club, providing flexible day care for older people who are still living independently.

Our club is the ideal place for your loved one to come and enjoy fun and stimulating activities and to make new friends, all in comfortable surroundings. It also gives you, their carer, the chance to have some time to yourself - whether it's a couple of hours or up to a whole day.

Everything we do is focused on helping your loved one to maintain an active and healthy lifestyle, whether they're into gardening, cooking, gentle exercise or quizzes.

Time for you

The Cedrus Club is as much about you, the family carer, as it is about your loved one. As a carer it's easy to put your own needs last. Let us take care of your loved one while you enjoy some well deserved time to yourself, whether you need to go shopping, meet a friend or simply relax. Our current club members' families say they always return to their caring role refreshed and re-energised having had some time to themselves.

Typical club activities

- Gentle exercise
- Current affairs
- Gardening
- Flower arranging
- Music quiz
- Book club
- Baking
- Reminiscence
- Art and craft
- Tea dance
- Bowls
- Aromatherapy

Who will you meet at the Cedrus Club?

Many of our club members are still living in their own homes but find that getting out and about on a regular basis gives them something to look forward to, keeps them independent and actually makes life back at home easier.

The club also holds sessions for members who are living with Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia. These sessions are managed by carers who are highly experienced and trained in caring for older people with this condition.

Members can also use the facilities at the adjacent Cedrus House care home, which include a cinema, hair salon and coffee shop. Access to other healthcare professionals such as opticians and physiotherapists can also be arranged.

The support you deserve

Our experienced carers at the Cedrus Club are here to support you and your loved one by delivering high quality, flexible care. Talk to them today to find out how they can help you.
